My Hope For Hallmarks Of Spiritual Progress

Master Hilarion

There are many topics that are near and dear to my heart when it comes to humanity and humanity's spiritual progress into the new civilization. I would speak first of that spiritual progress, of what spiritual progress means and of the hallmarks that, yes, I will say that I am looking for.

I would repeat something that I have said before. In my role, one of the things I do is compile reports for the council that we all work with and for, the governing council we shall call the decision-making council. I compile these reports for my coworkers and these reports have to do with the readiness of humanity to use advanced technology in a healthy and productive, caring manner.

Now, part of this healthy, productive, caring manner is the fact that this technology is not introduced so that the founders to whom it is released can grow wealthy and have yachts and vacation homes here, there and everywhere and all manner of luxuries. This technology would be released for the benefit of the human race. This technology cannot be released until those who would receive this technology understand that it is for the benefit of the human race. We want reasonable assurance that the recipients are willing to choose an adequate home and that they are willing to recognize and respect their role in developing and distributing this technology for the benefit of the human race.

We need to know and be fully aware of the potential for harmful use of this technology. We need to know the probability of harmful use. Part of that involves safety, safeguards, industrial secrets which we would very much wish to stay away from. So the question is how spiritually mature is humanity as demonstrated by right relationships – right relationships starting in your own home, in your own neighborhood, in your own workplace, your own place of worship if you have one, in your own lives. If these right relationships cannot be demonstrated in the place where you live every day and with the people you meet every day and with the Earth you walk every day, then there is not a great deal of hope that right relationships can be expressed on a broader scale ... effectively. And that is the key: effectively.

So I will join all of us who have been repeating over and over again that right relationships start in your daily life and expand from there. Until those right relationships are there in your daily lives and things like bullying in all its forms are on the way to being eliminated, it is not until then that the reports I forward to my colleagues can start saying that yes, it is safe to release this technology for the benefit of the whole human family.

Why? Because then I can say that we have found those who can develop and manage this technology for the benefit of the whole rather than the benefit of themselves and their friends. Then I can say that we have found within humanity a mindset and a mass commitment to caring about one another even if the language is different, if the religion is different, if the home country is different. Then I can say that this caring extends to the point of protecting those who cannot protect themselves like the children, for instance, children of all races, all beliefs all cultures ... all the children of the world.

We will wait until then, until we find this condition established, this caring, this responsibility toward human trafficking, toward greed, toward bullying, toward the fact that children are dying of hunger and for lack of water that is safe to drink, that children are dying because the adults cannot find a way to live peacefully together. When we find conditions developing such that I can report to my colleagues that humanity is, as a whole, addressing and correcting the lack of Oneness, then we can offer that technical assistance and I can recommend to my colleagues that the assistance be given.

Nothing would make me more happy. Nothing! It is a burden to know that solutions are out there, but that it is not safe to provide them because the mindset is such that they would be put to devastating destructive use rather than the benefit of the whole.

I would implore you to begin, in your daily lives, to understand what it means to live in right relationship with your family, your neighbors, your coworkers, your colleagues. That is the first step. I hope to see you taking that step soon.

Thank you.
