WeSeekToServe Evolves ...

Master Kuthumi speaks of WeSeekToServe changes.

Master Kuthumi

This month we're doing an experimental Open Forum. From the beginning, we have considered one of the strengths of this website and the MasterSpeak Panel Discussions to be that you, the reader, can experience and appreciate the diversity of opinion around a given topic and that this diversity of opinion offers each reader an opportunity to find resonance. The comments and the opinion that resonates with one reader will not necessarily resonate and strike a useful chord within another. This, we feel, has been our strength and this approach has been well received.

However, as with all good things, there are some drawbacks. And as our Off-Earth Allies came to join us and speak their opinions, we learned that they have a great deal they wish to say and that sometimes having a specific topic that everyone speaks to is a bit restrictive. Thus, we are experimenting.

This month, we have an open forum and that open forum enables each speaker to deliver a message that they feel is important, something that is close to their heart.

We will try this for June, and again in December. We would appreciate reader feedback as to how well you feel this meets your expectations and your participation in laying the groundwork for the New Civilization.

Leadership Rotation

In line with all we have been saying about rotating group leadership, we will practice what we preach. Effective with the July issue of WeSeekToServe, I will no longer be the primary contact from our side of the veil.

I would introduce to you the Panelist Group. This group is composed of speakers on WeSeekToServe. You may have noticed their icon on the site's page banners. The group's "bio" is available, just click on their icon.

This leadership rotation demonstrates a group working together to reach consensus and then speaking with a single voice. This group of panelists will be the primary contact for those on the channel interface team who give the speakers a voice into this media.

One of the things I mentioned when WeSeekToServe was inaugurated was that we practice diversity within unity and there is a solid-steel braided core of unanimity among us. Now, you will begin to see this demonstrated because you already know the individuals in the Panelist Group. They all speak in the MasterSpeak Panel Discussions. Now, you will have an opportunity to meet them not only as individuals but as a group with a single voice. You will know that any speaker expressing an individual opinion is also part of the Panelist Group unity and the unified voice focused on the topic in question.

You will get to know the Panelist Group more as they present themselves in July and subsequent issues.

I thank you very much for observing and moving with this change. We hope to demonstrate in this – and we hope to present to humanity – an example of unity and diversity within the unity.

I would like to add that it has been my pleasure, my deep pleasure, to have served as the coordinator of this website and it has been my pleasure to co-coordinate with Ken'u once our Off-Earth Allies joined us on this site. I speak for both of us when I say that this work has been most rewarding and we now step back. Let me introduce this site's new coordinator: the Panelist Group.

Thank you.

Master Kuthumi

The Panelist Group

We would like to thank Master Kuthumi and Ken'u for so graciously demonstrating a transition of leadership that is smooth and effective.

It will be our pleasure to offer guidance to the team that brings you this website, but mostly it is a deep, deep pleasure to be able to speak as a group, to speak with one voice and demonstrate the one voice of unity and yet the diversity that will exist within that unity. This, for us, is very welcome and we are much pleased with the opportunity.

We look forward to working with you.

Thank you.

The Panelist Group

Update: Expanded Presence ...

This month's update is brief.

We have had a potential breakthrough with a group that we have been attempting to work with, and we are approaching another group that we would be most delighted to work with. We are taking action on our side to find a facilitator for the event we have spoken of.

I would like to thank the reader who posed such pertinent questions after my last update. I believe you will find this reader's comments and the answers from the Panelist Group at the end of this discussion document.

I have said that I would provide an update on the expanded presence every month. This update will continue to be provided to you, as brief or as extensive as it may be.

I would have you know that, despite a few disappointments, we still anticipate the event we speak of becoming a reality before the end of this year. That I would like to assure you.

Thank you very much.

Master Kuthumi

Master Kuthumi ...

Since we each get to speak on this open forum on a topic that is near and dear to our hearts, I will speak on a topic that is near and dear to me.

There are several topics that appeared on my short list. This left me the opportunity to say a little bit about each one of them or to narrow it down and say a lot about one. I chose to narrow it down and say a lot about one.

My topic, the one I wish to speak to, is the topic of gurus.

It is a well-established fact in the history of humanity's spiritual development that the way forward for an individual is to seek and discover the leader whose messages resonate with the seeker's heart. The leader presents these messages – I would say rules or guidelines; talking points is a very popular political term – and in general, outlines, for the seeker, a path forward.

I would say the vast majority of gurus draw on the work that has been done in the past. They build upon that work and extend that work, adding their own flavor, their own intuitional insights, their own soul wisdom to the material and the wisdom that has been delivered by those gurus who came before them. You will find that most such gurus freely credit those who have come before them and they do not in any way hide the source of the basic wisdom upon which they build. This procedure has been followed for eons. I would like to follow it briefly from an individual's standpoint, the standpoint of the individual seeker.

The soul of an individual, the Spark of the Divine that resides within, speaks up, as it were, and the incarnated individual listens and becomes restless and knows that it is time to seek out a personal path to spiritual growth. The seeking begins. The path to finding a resonant message may be short, may be twisted, may be long. The path may be found by word of mouth, which is very common. It may be found in bookstores. It may be found nowadays with Internet searches. It may be that the teachings of parents or grandparents finally resonate and are looked at once again as a possible path for spiritual growth. But there is seeking.

Eventually, the seeker finds the message or messages that resonate, that answer the questions that arise, hungry and persistent, from inside, the questions from inside that must be answered, that give no rest until they are answered. The seeker connects with someone who is giving a message and then the seeker joins the following that has assembled around the one who is presenting the message. And that one is, in fact, a guru whether or not they accept the title.

Some gurus acknowledge that they are gurus. They have a staff that will support the delivery of their messages and support whatever rules or guidelines they establish for their following. Anyone who has been to an ashram in India knows exactly of what I speak. There is much love and devotion to the guru who delivers the messages and brings the light of the Divine here on Earth. There is much joy on the part of the staff supporting the guru and there is much joy in the hearts of those who follow the messages that are clearly coming from a Divine Source.

The major problem here, in this civilization, the major issue that will change in the new civilization, is that the staff and followers begin to shift allegiance not to the message, but to the messenger. I would repeat that because it is of keen significance, it is one of the most important changes that must be made if humanity is to survive and build a new civilization.

The love and devotion, the respect and unquestioning following of the leader must change. It is not the leader that is important, it is the message, the message that this guru or that guru delivers is what will enable all followers to realize their personal spiritual growth. It is the message that lifts humanity's consciousness – or I might say it is the message that is intended to lift humanity's consciousness – but the love and devotion quite understandably is transferred from the message . . . to the messenger.

When that happens, as has been explained and referred to in last month's presentations on groups, when the messenger becomes more important than the message, when the declarations of the messenger gain the status of law with followers and the followers do not question a message, a statement issued, but in loving obedience comply, then no matter how large or how small the group is, when the messenger leaves for whatever reason, the message itself is lost. Because it was not the message that lived and breathed and gave strength to the followers . . . it was the messenger.

I will say, quite clearly, that this pattern of central teacher, central guru, existed not only on the incarnated human side, but on our side as well. Now it is not and has not been so terribly pronounced on our side as it has been manifested on the physical plane by incarnated human beings, but it is the same pattern.

We are changing our pattern, the pattern that has been established for eons in how incarnated souls enter an inner-plane ashram and slowly advance until they exist in very close proximity with the guru of that ashram on the inner planes. We are changing our way of operating. And it is necessary that humanity recognizes what is going on, recognizes that the pattern that has sustained humanity for the entire of the Piscean Age and before is no longer valid for sustaining the Age before us now.

It is only in group formation, and networked groups, that humanity will survive. The group and the purpose and mission of this group is the equivalent of manifesting a portion of the Divine Message here on the physical plane. That is the group's mission and purpose, to manifest a portion of the Divine Plan and the Divine Message here on Earth. The messenger for this group will become messengers – plural.

And these messengers, these leaders, the leadership of these groups must rotate, must rotate, so that the group, the individuals within this group, are inspired by the message, are inspired by the group's responsibility to the Divine Plan, and therein lies their strength and therein lies their inspiration. Therein is the diversity within the unity of the group, simply what we have been trying to express in these panel discussions when we give several views of the very same topic. Our panel discussion is a very small and focused demonstration, the topic of the month being the purpose or the mission for that month. Translate that and see how that compares to the mission and purpose of a given group. And just as the leadership of that group must change, so the leadership in this particular website has evolved and will change. When we began, it was a one-person operation, a de facto guru. And now we have a team of voices into the world. The messages are the important part, not the messenger.

It is the messages that guide the way for manifesting the Divine Plan, the Divine Aspects on the physical plane. Each individual must have discernment and connection with their own soul and understand which messages resonate with them and which do not.

The age of the gurus is past. It is gone. It is dying. The age of the group with rotating leadership is on the ascendance and in these groups it is the mission and purpose of the group that provides the inspiration and the unity and the glue that holds the group together. It is not an individual or any group of individuals, it is the purpose and mission of the group that binds them. This is the new civilization.

And each group has tentacles, has bridges to other groups with like or similar or even diverse functions that are all supporting the Plan. That is the strength of humanity in the new civilization – that firm, solid, reliable network of groups not dependent upon any particular leader or any particular small group of leaders, dependent only upon the purpose for which the group has formed. And that purpose is to manifest on Earth the Divine Plan. Each group is related to other groups, has connections and bridges forming a network, a reliable network that brings the light and love of the Divine Plan to manifest on Earth.

I would implore each of you to take a long, hard look at every group you belong to and ask yourselves why you belong to this group, why you work for this group. Is it your love for the guru who heads this group? Is it your love for those people you work within this group? Because I will tell you that neither of those purposes will sustain that group into the new civilization.

If, however, you belong to that group because you resonate with the mission and purpose of the group, that will sustain not only you, it will sustain the group through rotating leadership and rotating membership.

It is a difficult mental shift to make for many because the emphasis in the Piscean Age has been the individual. I would urge you, and implore you, to think very long and hard, and even if you are now tied to the leader of your group or those you work within this group, that you look deeper and simply ask yourself which is more important, the purpose and message and mission of this group, or the friends you have there, your coworkers? Or is it the leader of this group?

That is what I would ask you to do. In many cases it will be a deep and painful soul-searching. But I would ask you, for your own sake and for the sake of the emerging new civilization, that you do that personal exploration.

I thank you.

Master Kuthumi

Sirius Minor ...

Hello to those who have taken an interest to read these words. It is my pleasure to speak through my "wordsmith," to greet you and offer my introduction. I am Sirius Minor, an Off-Earth Ally as we are called. Yes, I am a friend to those who co-habit this Earth, and I have come to offer my assistance at this very critical time in Earth's history.

My task is to me neither simple nor easy. To make contact with those on Earth, to make a solid and viable working partnership is a worthy task, but an expectedly tedious one. We must respect that Earth inhabitants will find the request of the many Off-Earth Allies not one familiar to their way of thinking. You have many wars and despondencies in your various societies that mirror the distrust in your hearts towards one another. We can hardly expect any better treatment. Yet we must strive to make alliances and friendships that will deeply benefit all of humanity.

You in humanity are not commonly in the knowledge that you have Brethren who live on other planets, in other solar systems. Your technologies have not shown you much evidence of this to be true, but it is in fact a very common and known fact elsewhere in the galaxies. Some of you suspect this and have made serious attempts to make contact. There are some we have made contact with, but now we are publicly making a worldwide contact for the benefit of all.

This is no small task. We have been preparing this for many an age, awaiting the right time when humanity and its technologies would marry with expansive thoughts and allow for such a contact to begin to foster itself. We are humbly at your service and wholly encouraged to do so. You are our Brethren. We have watched you and can now extend our hand to help you. This is a great day and age.

Thank you.

Sirius Minor

Arctan ...

My name is Arctan. I am from the astronomical feature you call M-17. There are other names for this feature. I am most pleased to be able to make an introductory presence on this website at a time when it is an open forum, a time when I may say what I wish to say on the topic of my choice. This is a privilege.

I would say the major challenge facing humanity at this point in time is, as has been presented, laying the foundation for the new civilization. And humanity, from my perspective, is well equipped to be able to meet this challenge.

This challenge requires flexibility. I am thinking of an analogy that I might present. Ah! I have the perfect one. I seek an image in the mind of the one who is giving me voice for this presentation. You see, that is one of the advantages of having many voices available: you can find, in the experience and mind of one voice or another, the image that will get the message across.

The image for my message is one of a time when telephone systems were all manual and operators plugged wires into sockets on switchboards to connect one call to another. As the telephone became more and more popular, the switchboards grew in size and the operators had more and more wires to connect. Some supervisors would go from one end of the room to the other on roller skates in order to be where they needed to be at one point in time. And it became clear that as the telephone system grew, it would simply not be possible to have enough switchboards and enough operators and enough supervisors on roller skates to keep the system workable.

That is analogous to where humanity is positioned in the current civilization. This current civilization simply will not sustain humanity's spiritual growth any more than that switchboard method of connecting telephone calls would survive and serve humanity's telephone needs. I hope you see the analogy, because what happened is that the old system was virtually replaced in its entirety. Yet the objective of connecting one phone call between two parties, or among more parties, remained. The objective remained exactly the same.

And so it is with planet Earth at this time. I would repeat my premise. Just as the old switchboards did not support the growing need for telephone services, the existing civilization does not support humanity's need for spiritual growth. Yet the objective does not change. The need for telephone communications did not change. Humanity's need for spiritual growth does not change.

Technological breakthroughs, new ideas and new perspectives manifested change for the telephone system. The technology, the creative ideas and the ingenuity of human beings brought about a new way of achieving the same objective: connecting people for their telephone calls. And thus it is with the new civilization. It is up to humanity to once again pool their creative resources and bring together the creative ideas and the new ways of doing things that will sustain humanity in its spiritual maturation. You call it the new civilization.

Now there may be arguments about whether or not this is truly spiritual and I would say that if you do not see everything in your life as a statement of your spirituality, then I would ask you to look again. For humanity is One and everything you do contributes to the health of that One or harms the health of that One, for negligence and neutrality, as has been said before, are the first steps to harm. However, defining spirituality is another topic, one which I would like to discuss, but not on this particular forum. I think the need for the health of the One has been presented before on these forums and spirituality has been defined.¹ I would ask you to think about that. I do not want to digress that far.

I will say that humanity has the heart and the ingenuity and the intuition so that Love Divine can flow through human hearts to the Christ Consciousness inside. That is one term you use: the Christ Consciousness within, the Spark of God within, the Spark of Unity within. You may name it whatever you want, but it is a Spark of the One that exists. Humanity has the power to use the creativity of that Spark within to work together in groups to create the foundation of the new civilization, leaving behind completely that of the old civilization which does not work, and moving forward with the very same objective of spiritual maturation, just as in the example of telephone switchboards.

I am certain I am not the first one to use that as an analogy, but I do like that analogy for it fits very, very well, and my mission here is to nurture, to the best of my ability, those ideas and concepts that will meld together from group to group to enrich the total creativity of humanity until there is no room for anything but creative approaches to building a new civilization with the same objective as the existing one, but a civilization that is, by far and away, a better place, a richer, more nurturing environment for that spiritual growth and maturation to take place. That is what I wish to say and I thank you for allowing me a voice on this forum.

I would ask that you believe I am only one of those who are out there nurturing the healthy creative ideas. These are humanity's ideas and we provide the encouragement – the necessary seeding – in hopes that someone will connect.

The possibility is there. Believe in the possibility. Believe in yourselves. Roll up your sleeves, as you say. Find the leaders with creative ideas that support Oneness. Join the groups that support Oneness as well as the bridging to other groups until you have a network of groups with creative ideas for the new civilization.

I thank you.

Arctan

Venetian Master ...

As you know, I am, as the Venetian, best known by one of my painterly lives, a life I devoted to learning the Art of Seeing.² Many of you would call it the Art of Seeing Within, for that is what it is – to go beyond the boundaries and bask in the inner light, the inner life, and all the glories and warts and foibles and vulnerabilities that touch and awaken the human heart. Therein lies Beauty. Therein lies the Divine Manifestation.

And this, every artist ever that was has tried to capture, be it by freezing eternity into a single epic moment, or capturing the essence of light, capturing the essence of darkness for that matter, and the piercing of darkness. And even, in so many ways down so many centuries, the Face of God, the mystery of transcendence, as the incarnate one touches the Ineffable beyond.

Do not pretend that you – whoever you are and no matter how far from “art” or “beauty” are your concerns – do not pretend that you have never been struck by some moment in your life – perhaps the face of your newborn or a fishing trip in the early dawn with nature rousing around you – whatever the moment, whatever the manner, you have inevitably been touched at some point by the inner light, the inner beauty of that which surrounds you. And in that moment, however prosaic or humble, you have sensed your birthright as a divine, perfected being, as a God in training, embodying the Good, the True and the Beautiful.

So I would encourage you to be open to such moments sublime. Listen to the inner rhythm of your heart. Know that it is ever open to open to you the secret, ephemeral accesses to All Life behind the eddies of the mundane. Your heart will open to you all manner of beautiful things and the Song of the Sublime if you but listen to that small, still inner voice.

So as you go about your day, accept those moments of intense pleasure that unrequited beauty provides: perhaps sunlight on water, or market stalls a riot of color or even your coffee barista, the complete replica of an early Venetian lady – her curls, her porcelain skin, the curve of her neck, of her ear, her coffee-brown eyes as she presents you with your cup. . . .

There is no end to the beauty that surrounds you, even in the gnarled and gritty and spent things that have done yeoman's service, that have loved and lived and now stare back at you with no shame. See beyond, go within those faces, those tableaux parading daily before your eyes. And as you touch the living fire of Inner Beauty, you will find the sustenance, the manna to forge ahead and right the wrongs big and small, establish the deep nurturing bonds, start carving the New Civilization in all its humble but incontestable glory.

Open your eyes to the Beauty that surrounds you, to the Life that permeates all. It is effulgent. Be the change. Be the radiance. Dare to feel the Beauty you encompass and can shine upon the world.

Rise above the banal modern standards of outward beauty and the miscellaneous nefarious plots to keep you trapped in self-loathing. No matter the size of your hips, the shape of your nose . . . but I digress. All those impediments to living as a soul incarnate are another veil to rend and waft away, another story.

See and feel the beauty of your everyday world, your everyday life and the colors that surround you. See them as the reflection of the inner, all-nurturing Light and Life. This is my wish for you.

Learn to truly see and sense the Beauty eternal, the Light within all. Manifest it in all that you do, for in that way, that space, We can touch and work with you in the highest octave.

Thank you.

The Venetian Master

Ken'u ...

I would like to talk about the alliance that we, the Stellar Council, have with the Masters who are in charge of this planet.

Our alliance goes back a very long way, to a time when the being you call Mother Earth asked for assistance to evolve further. Her request was presented to the High Council which acknowledged and supported this request. Task forces were established to help accommodate Earth's evolution following the Divine Plan.

"Task force" is obviously a modern term in your language but it describes perfectly well the endeavor we embarked on. Many teams that had been guided by the Force, the Divine Spark or Light were established, consisting of many different star races that came to support the call from Mother Earth. Proposals were presented on how to best support and assist her request. What you refer to now as the Community of Spiritual Masters was one of the first groups that was formed by volunteers from other star races who felt a deep connection with Mother Earth and her request and decided to closely connect to her evolutionary path.

We from the Stellar Council, which is one of many, were formed shortly afterwards. Our members had also followed the call and volunteered to help Mother Earth in her evolution. We were established to follow and support the human life forms that would inhabit this planet and to work hand in hand with the Community of Spiritual Masters to fine-tune activities, review the implementation and result, be on stand-by whenever needed and reach out to assist on request from the Earth Masters.

Our alliance – or better, our partnership – goes back a long way. We went through many different eras of evolution on this planet together. We were observing, we were analyzing, we were assisting and at one time we were joyfully mixing and mingling with the inhabitants of this planet. We were fully in the open – everybody knew us, we were walking the streets with you and the Earth Masters.

And then, this friendly and peaceful cohabitation and collaboration came to an end and the Earth Masters asked us to step back and just observe. I will not go into further details of these events today. Suffice it to say that we were very saddened by the twists and turns that evolution on this planet had taken.

Again we reviewed the status quo with our allies, our trusted friends and partners from the Community of Spiritual Masters, and jointly decided that we would not interfere in the new direction humanity had chosen to go but to be there always as their friends and brothers from space waiting for the right moment to be re-introduced.

There is so much information that we would like to share with you, with those who are open to receive. Please understand that we are always – always – working with the Earth Masters as a unified team to assist this being you refer to as Mother Earth on her evolutionary path.

For us to be accepted by humanity, we – and this includes the Earth Masters as well – would like to be heard by as many people on this planet as possible. The first step is to have an open heart and an open mind for the information that is now released to the public through various tools like books, websites, public channelings. Ask yourself always if what you hear, see and learn is resonating with you. If it does and you sense that your soul's mission is to work with us, then take the next step.

The next step would be to indicate to us that you, too, would be open to direct communication with us. Know your heart and your motivation and set the intention to develop open communication with us. Then be aware and alert to our response. This process can take many forms and travel many avenues – dreams, telepathic contact, other signs. But there must be a connection so that you know we have responded, and we know that you have heard our response in whatever way you “hear,” in whatever way you acknowledge that you have heard us. From that point we can begin to communicate.

This is a major next step as it could entail the customization of your etheric field to our frequency, which might be accompanied by some physical or emotional sensations, at least at the beginning.

Be assured that we wish to reach you in your own individual way, a way that is most comfortable for you.

Our alliance and partnership with the Community of Spiritual Masters – and with other beings who are also very committed to their assigned tasks to assist this planet – this partnership is now open to include you as well. It is for sure a delicate and interesting process to enter into a partnership of this type and size, a development that has its learning curves and fall-backs, but be assured that we from our side are all more than inspired and enthusiastic to welcome you on board.³

³ For an additional perspective from Ken'u, visit <http://ThoughtsFromAMaster.com>, June 2013, the commentary entitled Is Working With Off-Earth Allies Possible?

I would ask you to reflect on what I have just said . . . take your time and feel the resonance of the energy that is released through the written word.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to speak to you again.

Ken'u

Sartarius ...

Today I would like to talk about the evolution of humanity as it relates to the changes at hand, presently occurring.

There is a great shift in the cosmos and Earth is affected in a totally consuming manner. Every aspect of life and existence on planet Earth is being transformed as we speak. It is being reshaped, reborn, re-fashioned to evolve into a higher level of being. This can, at times, be a painful process. (Sartarius presents the image of a male youth suddenly growing six inches in a year, causing his bones to ache and his skin to get stretch marks.)

Even the act of birth is a painful process to the body of the woman. Changes occur, the body adapts and carries on. This is so with planet Earth and all that exists in its realm from the infinitesimal to the grand in size. The changes are physical, emotional, etheric . . . multi-dimensional.

We, your brethren, are here to aid this transformation that cannot be avoided, but only endured and adapted to. We understand the discomforts that come with this transformational period as we have been through this ourselves. We can offer our assurances and assistance in many areas. Primarily, we offer our help as guides and a source to refer to when you have questions about the transformations. This is an unpredictable period and some answers from one who has been through a similar process will offer some ease of mind to those who enquire about what will happen, and how to deal with certain issues.

The effects on Earth and its inhabitants will vary from the effects on my civilization, but the core idea will be consistent and it is there that we can offer guidance.

No two transformations will be alike, that is certain, but the outlines will be similar and offer guidelines. Trust will be imperative at this time. Some of the experiences will not have a precedent and will be misunderstood and not trusted as real, but an open heart in these matters will make the transformation less difficult.

Those living on Earth will experience a wave of changes, followed by a wave of adjustments and realignments. It is not a one-step process, but several steps of acceptance, as with all things. What will seem foreign and new will soon become familiar and everyday. I can cite the intra-planetary use of the cellular device for human communication. It has changed the way your world operates in a very, very short period of time.

We are confident that humanity has seen enough new technologies and energetic possibilities that our presence will not be as difficult to accept as in earlier days. Your media shows images of interactions with off-Earth beings already . . . in stories for entertainment. These are not by accident. We have encouraged this use of the media to open the view of humanity to other life in their realm, other life that interacts with them whether they know it or not.

Truly, this is a triumph. For humanity to realize it has "distant cousins" will be a spectacular realization. That is all.

Thank you.

Sartarius

Master Morya ...

I greet the readership of this website! I am Morya and delighted to take this opportunity to speak to you. May I share some of my thoughts and feelings with you?

This planet that you call Mother Earth has reached that very special moment on her evolutionary path that is of immense importance not only to herself and those inhabiting her but also to the overall Divine Plan. It is this moment of evolutionary enlightenment that is coming closer and closer – not only for a handful of advanced souls but for more and more incarnate beings on this planet.

Throughout human history, a few wise men and women knew that the Dark Ages should be over at one point in time and a new Era of Light would start. The past few hundred years were bridging the old Dark Ages with the new Age of Light. Many wars, upheavals and misconceptions were part of life on this planet. No matter where you turned and looked, the darkness even intensified in some areas before the veil could lift . . . before the first rays of light could descend and be received.

There have always been incarnate souls that truly, from the bottom of their hearts, knew that the light would win, that the cracks that slowly started to happen when humanity awakened and started to question the rigid laws of the ruler or those who were in power beside the ruler would get larger and change the surface of the Earth.

Many of those awakened souls who could see the light, who could see the truth and shared their knowledge and wisdom, had to pay a very high price for their courage. Many of them were silenced and belittled, tortured and killed. Some revoked their official statements to save their families, others did not.

You see, it is a process that needed to take place without intervention from our side. Humanity had to find its own way out of darkness. We assisted as much as we were karmically allowed to, often with tears in our eyes as we were very saddened by what we had to observe.

It is very demanding sometimes to be a Master, you know. Your heart goes out to humanity but your hands are tied by cosmic rules. You are allowed to observe and even to feel the hardship, the grief, the sorrow, the disillusion of those you love dearly but you cannot be visibly at their side as an incarnate being to comfort them, to give them hope and support. You can just watch.

We have now reached a new cosmic window that due to a higher vibratory rate that this planet has reached allows us to communicate with those incarnate human souls who are willing and open to hear and work with us. This is a major milestone as it allows us to share information to guide those of you who are interested in this cross-dimensional interaction to serve the overall Plan.

Mother Earth has had tough times. The inhabitants of this planet were acting very violently towards each other and towards this planet, causing a lot of pain and disharmony, shaking and violating the boundaries in which they lived for personal gains.

We, the Community of Spiritual Masters, are overjoyed now to see the new consciousness of humanity starting to unfold. More and more of you are stepping back from the egoistic exploitation of common resources. More and more of you have started to look at your own lives, have started to question your own priorities in life that are based on artificial consumption patterns and consumer oriented propaganda. You have started to ponder upon life in general and your own life in particular. You have started to reflect on what you personally could do to save this planet, to heal Mother Earth.

You have started to question your own education and value system that has been instilled in you since childhood. You have started to show interest in activating innate talents and tools to perceive more of the world around you. You have started to listen to the whistle-blowers, to those within your society that are branded "black sheep" and are belittled and sometimes even discriminated against and outcast. You have opened up to the Divine, to embrace the light within yourself. You have started to be fearless.

You have come a long and stony way to reach this place, this website, to absorb my words and the words of those who are also addressing you here, sharing their views and wisdom with you. We are proud of you!

We, the Masters of Wisdom, encourage you to keep going, to allow the light within yourselves to shine brighter and brighter so you can see the path you are walking clearly and without any doubt.

You are not alone. You never have been. You never will be. We are at your side. Always. Never forget that.

It is for you to signal your willingness to work with us. We are on stand-by.

The process of the awakening of humanity has reached a new milestone. We assure you of our assistance and guidance in this process to reach the next milestone – the next milestone being to work in groups with us on a larger scale.

I thank you for allowing me to speak up today. Thank you for listening. I bless you all.

We have waited since time immemorial to share our thoughts with humanity. There has not been a true and thorough process for such thought distribution ever in the history of mankind. Through your modern inventions we can make our voice heard . . . and heard widespread.

You cannot imagine what a revelation this is. We feel privileged to be able to participate in such a program whereby our thoughts are shared with those who are interested to hear them, interested to learn more.

This fills us with unimaginable joy, for the time has finally come into existence whereby we are actually already there.

Please excuse my excitement. (There is a pause while he remains still.)

The path forward for humanity will forever be changed by this method of distributing information. Humanity will have before itself an availability to speak with us also and this will put vast new parameters on our work together. We look forward to the dialogue with humanity when it comes to happen. This day is not far off.

Eons of preparation have brought us to this fortuitous point in time. How can one even imagine this time span? But we have been waiting and waiting. We are very pleased to finally be able to present ourselves in this manner. Please share this joy with us.

Thank you.

The topic I would like to present to you today is the stagnating and coarse energies that are blocking the evolution of this planet. You, dear reader, most likely are wondering why I have chosen this topic. Well, it is a topic that is of major importance to this planet and our collective work to assist this planet in its ascension process.

Energy . . . you are all aware that energy is everything. Energy is consciousness as well. Therefore energy is alive, it is a living being, created through us as well as coming to us. Speaking about energy today, I hope to focus your attention on the energy that you are emitting with all that you are thinking, feeling and saying. Even your body language emits an energy that is leaving an impact on your environment, believe it or not.

Energy . . . very important . . . very powerful.

I would like you to be fully aware of the energy you, as a living incarnate being, are emitting. Your energy becomes a product, a tool. It can become a danger, a disease. Your energy leaves a footprint, so to speak, on this planet, a footprint that, combined with other footprints of a similar frequency, can help this planet and humankind to rise and evolve . . . or to stagnate and die.

The energies you emit – thoughts, actions, feelings – are so very powerful. They are incredibly powerful and you do not realize this at all because most of you do not see the energetic footprint that you leave when thinking or feeling. You only see and acknowledge what you can touch and see in your physical world. There is, however, another side of your world that is non-physical.

The non-physical world is much larger than the physical. It is much richer, but also much more challenging in its presentation and realization – its manifestation – of energy formats and templates that you cannot touch and see, formats and templates that are very, very real in their effects upon humanity and upon this planet.

I am working with several teams at the moment, teams from other dimensions that came to provide their assistance and teams of humans who have been called to action in order to cleanse this planet on a global scale of specific types of energies that are hindering the smooth transition of Mother Earth from the current dimension to the next one. These suffocating energies are like a thick blanket surrounding this globe. They create blockages of different types, different frequencies of heaviness that require different tools to transmute them into energies that Mother Earth can absorb and use for ascension instead of destruction.

Those who have knowledge of the human cornea might understand the example of astigmatism. Astigmatism means that there are lumps within the cornea that make the cornea thicker which, in turn, restricts normal eyesight. The same is true with the energy field surrounding this planet. This energy field has many concentrated lumps of dull, heavy energy that restrict the humans living beneath them from reaching out to the higher frequencies of love and respect. Instead of absorbing higher frequencies, people in these areas live for generations in a state of constant quarreling and periodic war.

These heavy energy clouds were seeded thousands of years ago by people who quarreled with each other. They sent out vibrations of darkness, of hate, anger, resentment. The vibrations lingered, inciting the next generation to more quarrels, more darkness. And so it continued. Those vibrations of darkness accumulated over the centuries and became harder, thicker, darker, and more intense.

The dark energy emitted by those living in an area that is constantly at war – where the willingness of some to work on peace initiatives is stopped by people in power – is a major obstacle to raising the frequency of this planet and is preventing Mother Earth's next step towards ascension. The planet must be energetically cleansed – each part of it. Special care and attention is currently given to those areas where war, animosity and disrespect for life are on the daily agenda.

Those with whom I am currently working to cleanse the planet have embarked on a task that is of major importance to the overall Divine Plan. Much is at stake if we do not succeed in time. I do not wish to go into further detail on what, where and how we are doing our job.

I do, however, wish to state that you, the reader, could support our work by watching your thoughts, emotions and actions. Please observe yourself and stay away from sending out negative energy in the form of words, thoughts, feelings or actions. Be patient with yourself and the world around you. Show empathy. Have mercy. The moment you are aware of a negative feeling or thought, infuse it with light or surround it with light to neutralize it. Do not leave a heavy energetic footprint today for us to clean up tomorrow. That would help our course.

For this planet to ascend, the heavy, dense energy that has surrounded it for millennia must be removed. This planet does not need more heavy energy.

It needs the frequencies of love, light and healing. Please do your share to support Mother Earth.

You are part of this planet. I beg you to handle it with love, respect and care. Please!

Thank you for having the patience to learn about my work.

Master St. Germain ...

Consciousness is a topic of some importance to me as humanity is currently faced with what many call the shift into a new world consciousness. It is now important that humanity learn who they are and what is needed to create this new world consciousness.

First, understanding who we are is important. All of us are essentially God. We are a creation of God from His own substance and therefore we must learn to understand that we are truly One with the God we have so often prayed to and sought favors from. Essentially, we have lost our way. We have lost our ability to recognize what we once knew long ago and that is that we are the essence of the One who has created everything in this universe. This is important to discuss again since we are at a new point in the evolution of humanity. We are, as some say, in the process of a rebirth of humanity.

What I mean is that we are being reborn as humans at a higher level of consciousness. As we enter this new era, we will be welcoming in a new era of greater understanding of who we are. This will produce a new civilization, one like no other ever seen on this planet. This will be a wonderful new adventure. I call it an adventure because humanity will need to create a new path for itself. Humanity cannot look back upon the old world for guidance because the new world we are reborn into has nothing of the old in it that can be useful. This is important for all to understand. The old cannot go with us into the new world. The old world is now gone, it is past and we should delete it and see it as dead information.

Many will be reluctant to delete this old world because there has been so much history and so much human suffering trying to find ourselves. Our past search has been a struggle that produced heroes and villains that slowly produced a limited expansion of consciousness. We need only look back on the past one hundred or two hundred years of human history to see that it produced mainly terrible human suffering. Therefore, let us be joyous and look forward to the new world we have just recently stepped into.

This new world is a place where we can set aside the old, murderous ways of humanity. In this new world before us, our focus will be on building new civilizations that will lead us rapidly toward harmony and balance in all things. We will begin to fully understand the Brotherhood of Man that is harmony and balance in all our relationships. This is not difficult to understand. We have lived with uncertainty and misery for so long and yet we are reluctant to leave it for something that is unknown.

I tell you now that if you expect to know the future before you create it, you will not truly understand what is happening. We will not and cannot use the teachings of the past to build our new civilizations. By that I mean we should look for new spiritual revelations. Look for new teachings with new concepts of what is spiritual. Look for a new understanding of yourself and your associations with all else on this planet. This does not require knowing past human history. We will go on this new path that we will search out one step at a time. It will be as I said, a journey, a journey into new, unknown territory.

This new territory will produce great fruits for humanity as never seen previously. This will be a wonderful era of discovery of new ways of living in harmony and peace. New generations of humans will build upon the foundation that you build now. Build the foundation strong with the utmost speed and you will avoid the consequences of the trauma caused by this major shift in consciousness. This shift may sound easy to some but it is a shift where everything you have known in the past will have to be deleted. You must begin anew. New in all things is the key. This, my friends, is my message, and I wish to encourage you all to ponder very deeply upon what I have said.

I am St. Germain.

In Response – Q&A re: The Event ...

Panelists do not normally answer readers' specific questions. Yet there is always an exception to the rule. After Master Kuthumi's May, 2013 Update: Expanded Presence, Linda, from the reading community, asked some questions that are very likely on other readers' minds.

Linda: The question I have is regarding the event Master Kuthumi spoke of that will be delayed because of cosmic law that the Masters must be welcomed and acknowledged by humanity before coming here.

The question is: Why doesn't our soul have some say over this? Our soul knows what is best for us, guides us. Why isn't our soul what the Masters turn to when looking for acknowledgement and welcome?

Our souls understand the spiritual side as most of our soul resides there, but the soul is also a part of our humanness, too. Why can't our soul be considered as an avenue for the Masters to be able to move forward with this event and other things that will be for the Earth's highest good?

I'd like to get the show on the road, so to speak. I guess that is my impatient side speaking now.

Part 1.

The question is: Why doesn't our soul have some say over this? Our soul knows what is best for us, guides us. Why isn't our soul what the Masters turn to when looking for acknowledgement and welcome?

The Panelist Group: The Masters do not need to be acknowledged and welcomed by the soul for that already exists on the soul plane. Much exists on the soul plane that is not sufficiently, at this point in time, mirrored on the physical plane. And that is the point. Because we honor the free will in the physical plane, we must have a physical plane welcome and acknowledgment just as the soul welcomes and acknowledges us on the soul plane. This must be done. It is a mirror and it is free will.

Part 2. Our souls understand the spiritual side as most of our soul resides there, but the soul is also a part of our humanness, too. Why can't our soul be considered as an avenue for the Masters to be able to move forward with this event and other things that will be for the Earth's highest good?

Panelist Group: Well the answer to that, in short, is free will.

We are capable of doing much that would be in Earth's highest good, but that would violate human free will and if human free will is violated, then the souls who are thus violated by our imposition rather than their free will choice as incarnate beings, those souls become damaged. The return journey and the spiritual maturation process is not something that we can force upon anyone.

While we might have the ability to do much on behalf of this planet, on behalf of humanity, we will not do that. It is a violation of free will and it is an abrogation on the part of humanity

- of their responsibility to the planet
- and their responsibility to their own spiritual maturation
- and their responsibility to build the civilization that will nurture spiritual growth for all.

This is the responsibility of those who are incarnate.

The souls on our plane know of this responsibility and it is that soul-to-incarnated-human-being connection that must be intact for the soul and what the soul knows to be manifested by the incarnate human being.

When that happens, then the human being is quite ready to step up – or perhaps is in a position to be quite ready to step up – to welcoming us and understanding that the responsibility to build and to make these changes is not ours. It is yours. And you must take responsibility for making these changes.

We are here to offer our assistance. We will come to offer our assistance, but the responsibility to make these changes and improve the civilization is your responsibility, not ours.

That is why the welcome and acknowledgment must come from those among humanity who are spiritual leaders, whether or not they consider themselves spiritual leaders. It is those leaders who are the spiritual bright lights, whether or not they happen to believe in God or Spirit or bright lights. They have sufficient connection with their souls that they know how to live a life and they know what must be done and these are the leaders that we will connect with to have welcome us. That is the plan.

I hope this answers Linda's question. It is understandable why this question arises and I hope that I have answered this question. *
