Green Shoots

Master Morya

The battle between good and evil for humanity on planet Earth is at a very intense point. On one hand there's the bad news, unpleasant and horrible, that reaches you through the media speaking about corruption, murders, massacres, genocides and all kinds of bad things that depress people and get them asking, "What on Earth is going on? Where are we heading?" However, you never ask yourselves, "What can I do to change this situation," do you? But we will talk about that later. On the other hand, we have the "green shoots," the small bits of news, often unnoticed by many, sometimes really important, that lead us to believe there is still hope for a change in humanity. Green shoots of hope.

News of the historic handshake between President Barak Obama of the United States and President Raul Castro of Cuba on April 12, 2015 at the Summit of the Americas held in Panama is one such story, a simple handshake between the leaders of two countries that have been non-combative enemies since the 1960s. News like this portends significant change in the political development of each country. And it doesn't matter that the doomsters will say, "Well, this is going to take a long time, there is not going to be a real change...." It doesn't matter how long it takes if it finally takes place and there is an opening for the Cuban people and an improvement in their living conditions. It doesn't matter if this terrible dictatorship which has been going on for more than 50 years finally changes and ends.

Of course, there will be vested interests in all of this and more debris will surface, but it is a first step and that is why you have to look for the green shoots hidden amongst the weeds of the bad news and horrible events. To these green shoots you and your meditation groups must apply the highest energy possible, surrounding them and helping them grow into great trees that cast good shade and outgrow the weeds and the underbrush around them.

There are many, many green shoots, and you must search for them. Sometimes they are very well hidden, but every time you come across a piece of news, an event, a change in the laws or anything that you consider an improvement for the New Earth, then you must bless it and surround it with light to favor its growth and expansion.

And now for the second part. We see the human family asking themselves as they face the bad news, as they face the debris flooding into their lives, "Oh Lord! Where are we going, where is the world heading?" and getting depressed. Then our question is: "Why doesn't anybody ask themselves what they can do to change the situation?" No one asks themselves this question. The thing is that change can only be accomplished through each and every one of you, through each person individually. If there is not individual change, it will be most difficult to achieve a global change.

The change consists in finding the flame of God within yourselves, the divine white and blue flame, the flame of the love of God in your hearts. Finding this flame of love will make you change the way you live, the way you understand what surrounds you, the way you interact with your environment. Discovering this flame, discovering the divine part in yourselves, rediscovering your own spirituality is the beginning of the change. Once you discover this flame and begin to change the way you act, then others will also begin to change.

So I would ask each and every one of you to look inside yourself and try to find that flame as soon as possible. It will light the way for those around you, so start to change the way you treat your partner, your children, your parents, your relatives, your neighbors, your colleagues and the people you come across in the street. Start changing your attitude through that loving flame of God in your hearts, start looking at the world around you with new eyes, with hope, with confidence that you are not alone and that you are more than a body and a mind, and the change will come.

The problem with the human family is that you are completely disconnected from what you really are, and you are part of God, incarnated divine beings. You have the light of God within your hearts and this essential truth does not get through to most of the human family. You are completely disconnected from the reality of your spirit, of your soul. The spirit and the soul know everything, they know what they want and where they want to go. But the human family looks no further than its own belly button and most people totally disconnect from their spiritual part, which brings them desperation and depression. They do nothing when there is so much that can be done.

You have the power of the knowledge in your souls, you have the light, the strength of the light, the power and strength of love. Love and knowledge and will, all of these are in you. They are the Christic Flame burning within you. Look inside yourselves and find it. Then you will find how powerful you are and know how much you can accomplish and how much you can change. Change is in your hands. Individually. It has to come from each and every one of you.

If all of you get together in that change, in that discovery, in that rediscovering of your soul, and you focus your will and your desire on changing the reality you are living, on heading towards the New Earth, you will create a momentum of change. The more people become aware of the change they want – the more people, I insist – the stronger the momentum for change will be and the easier it will be to accomplish. You already know that when someone places his/her energy on obtaining a goal, the whole universe opens up and supports that goal if it belongs to the soul.

Thus, the New Earth is the goal that humanity must have in mind and it must place all of its energies there. The more you focus your energies on the change and on the New Earth, the easier the change will be, the more green shoots you will have. So create this momentum for change in your energy and start to create the New Earth, the new human family.

It is as simple as that. Look inside yourselves, discover yourselves, wish for the change and focus your energy on it. Be contagious – and this word is important – to as many people as possible so that you have more and more people, hundreds, thousands, millions of humans wishing for that change for the better and for the New Earth. Then the change will come easily. Just remember that you are much more than a body and a mind. Much more. You are a soul. You are energy. You are powerful light beings.

What you wish will be what you get because you have the power to achieve it. This has been stated before and it is so. Move forward with a clear heart and a clear notion of all that can be accomplished by those who but desire this change.

Thank you.
